Notes:

A delegation may be temporarily withdrawn by a more senior delegate at any time, provided it is within their area of responsibility. This is to be managed as a local administrative arrangement and must be communicated in writing to relevant delegates.

2. General conditions for delegates

The Human Resources Delegations are an important legal document conferring on delegates the authority to perform or authorise particular employment related functions in the Information and Privacy Commission NSW (IPC).

The Human Resources Delegations and the Delegate Levels have been designed to represent a single statement of authority across the IPC.

The scope of the power delegated is limited to the scope of the Chief Executive Officer's power to act.

A delegation may be temporarily withdrawn by a more senior delegate at any time, provided it is within their area of responsibility. This is to be managed as a local administrative arrangement and must be communicated in writing to relevant delegates.

Managers have a responsibility to ensure all their staff, particularly those who hold a delegation, are aware of, and understand the powers and limitations of the delegations and the associated responsibilities.

Delegates found to have exercised a delegation improperly or exceeded the scope of their delegation, may have their delegation(s) revoked without notice, in addition to any other disciplinary action.

A delegate is not authorised to sub-delegate any of the delegated functions to another person unless that power is specifically delegated by the CEO under section 27(2) of the Government Sector Employment Act.

It is the responsibility of delegates to ensure that they have complied with the legislation, award requirements and any other conditions relevant to the delegations they exercise. Department of Customer Service Human Resources officers will be available if required by delegates to clarify any procedures.

Delegates are encouraged to utilise the electronic version (and not print) as the delegations may be withdrawn or varied at any time. The Human Resources Delegations are published on the IPC website at <https://www.ipc.nsw.gov.au/about-us/our-corporate-information/operational-policies-and-procedures>

2.1 Levels

The Delegate Levels represent broad groups that are based on factors including the level of responsibility, salary and organisational structure. There may also be circumstances where some roles are specifically identified because the group is diverse in rank/grade or identified in a sub-group of a level because of the particular responsibilities. Where a role is identified in a sub-group, the delegate will also assume the generic functions for that level.

An appropriate level of delegation will usually be considered and assigned to a role at the time of its creation or as requested by the CEO. The delegation is attached to the role not the individual. A person formally acting in the role assumes the relevant delegations.

2.2 Exercising a Human Resources delegation

2.2.1 A delegate must exercise their delegated authority:

- in accordance with the relevant legislation, awards, Government and organisational policy, guidance, directives and any other conditions, restrictions or limitations to which the delegation is subject. Any references provided are not meant to be exhaustive. The onus is on the delegate to demonstrate that the conditions were satisfied before the delegation was exercised; and

- relevant to the delegate's area of responsibility only, unless otherwise specified; and
- in conjunction with the Minister's financial delegations under the Government Sector Finance Act 2018 and Regulations. The scope of a financial delegation should not be taken to expand the scope of any human resources delegation, nor shall the scope of a human resources delegation be taken to expand the scope of a financial delegation; and
- subject to availability of appropriately allocated funds, resources and financial delegation to give effect to the decision; and
- by ensuring that all decisions are consistent with the Government Sector Core Values.

2.2.2 Within the context of the IPC a delegate must not:

- exercise a delegated function in respect of herself/himself; or
- obtain approval from a subordinate delegate for authorisation or approval of their own claims or general authorities except in circumstances where there is sound documentation to explain the unique circumstances and the process adopted is documented and capable of systems reproduction; or
- approve any action that provides them with a personal benefit; or
- exercise a delegated function if doing so would involve a conflict of interest or might be perceived to be a conflict of interest; or
- exercise a delegation if, in the opinion of the delegate some special or unusual circumstances are involved which make it sensible that the issue should receive consideration at a more senior level.

2.3 Sources of authority

Human Resources related delegations are drawn from the following source documents:

Legislation

- Government Sector Employment Act 2013 - (GSE Act)
- Government Sector Employment Regulation 2014 – (GSE Regulation)
- Government Sector Employment Rules 2014 – (GSE Rules)

Industrial instruments

- Crown Employees \(Public Service Conditions of Employment\) Reviewed Award 2009- (CECEA)
- Crown Employees \(Transferred Employees Compensation\) Award - (TECA)

2.4 Further information

4. Appendix 1 – Instrument of delegation

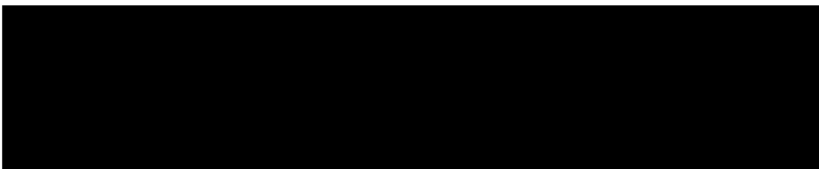

INSTRUMENT OF DELEGATION

Under section 32 of the Government Sector Employment Act 2013, (“the Act”), I, Elizabeth Tydd, Information Commissioner and Chief Executive Officer, Information and Privacy Commission, hereby delegate my functions as agency head to the delegate levels as specified in the attached Information and Privacy Commission Human Resources Delegation 2022.

The functions of agency head delegated are limited to those described in the Information and Privacy Commission Human Resources Delegation 2022 and cannot be sub-delegated unless specifically authorised under section 32(2) of the Act.

These delegations replace any existing delegations on these matters.

This delegation is to have effect on and from 31 May 2023.

Elizabeth Tydd
Chief Executive Officer and Information Commissioner
